CHINESE REBELS DEFEATED. Believed Outbreak in Kwang-He Will Be Gradually Suppressed.

Washington, April 9.—A cablegram received at the State Department to-day from United States Consul McWade at Canton is to the effect that Governor Peng has reported to the Consul that the rebels in Kwang-He have been defeated and are being pursued by the imperial troops. The missionaries are reported to be safe.

Mr. Rockhill considers this dispatch to mean that the rebellion in that section, like most outbreaks, will be from this point on gradually suppressed.

Death of Warren W. Wolfe.

Warren W. Wolfe, St. Louis representative of the United Autographic Register Company of Chicago, died at his home, 452A McMillan avenue, on Tuesday, April 8, at $120 a. m. Mr. Wolfe's death was a great shock to his many friends, he being in the best of health and spirits on Monday, attending to his business as usual. About 1 o'clock Tuesday morning he was taken with convuisions, and died as stated, with acute inflammation of the stomach. Mr. Wolfe came here three years ago, and by his energy succeeded in building up a large business for his company, and by his affable disposition and manners endeared himself to a large circle of personal friends. Mr. Wolfe's remains were shipped to his old home, Shioshewana, Ind., for interment, He was a member of the Elks and Knights of Fythias, holding his membership in Milwaukee, where he came from to this city.

-Photograph by Stulle G and. MISS ELSIE FORD. Maid of honor last night at the Cook-Preetorius wedding.

Miss Carrie Dickson Cook, daughter of Harry Sprague and George Bradley, both of St. Louis. After the ceremony there was an informal gathering of relatives and in-Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Dickson Cook, was married last evening to Edward Louis Preetorius, son of Doctor Emil Preetorius and associate business manager of the Westliche Post, at 8 o'clock at the Cook residence, No. 3828 Washington boulevard. The floral decorations were both elaborate and handsome, consisting entirely of Easter lilies and masses of delicate green. In front of the large ceiling mirror, on the east wall of the drawing-room, a canopy and simulated chancel were erected, tall altar candlesticks on either side and the green smiler portions at the drawing of Hillsboro, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Henry Spear of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Phillips ax portleres tied back with large clusters of white lilles.

The bride and bridegroom took their station within, before the Reverend Doctor William Short, who read the service in the presence of only relatives and a few friends. Later came a small reception from half after 8 until half after 10 o'clock.

The bride, who came into the rooms with her father, wore white meteor crepe, the bodice entirely of old-rose point lace, which has been in the Cook family for many years, being brought from Brussels. The design was especially handsome, the roses raised from their background. The neck was slightly decollete, while long lace sleeves covered the arms. A deep flounce of rose point trimmed the skirt, combined with hand tucks. She wore a tulle veil and carried a shower bouquet of white gardenias and lilles of the valley. Her only jewel was a valliere, one of several ornaments which were given to her by Mr. Preetorius. This of pearls and diamonds, a large, perfectly round pink pearl being surrounded by white pearls, and dismonds caught between the drop pearls on either side. There were three bridesmaids, who en tered the drawing-room singly—Miss Elsle Ford, Miss Helen Noel and Miss Rena Dula, all St. Louis girls and intimate friends of the bride since childhood. They were gowned alike in pink flor-de-the, a crepelike material, trimmed with quantities of white lace. They wore short tulle veils and carried round bouquets of pink roses. Mrs. Cook wore ashes-of-roses maire, beautifully appliqued in duchesse lace, with pink chif-

John W. Kearney served the bridegroom as best man, while Adolph Smith of New York, and Roger Whitman, also of New York, were the groomsmen. D. Dickson Cook, the bride's brother, Lynton Block, Lewis Tune and Frank Shields were the ushers, stretching white satin ribbons to form an aisle as the bridal party entered to the music of a stringed orchestra in the hall. A pretty innovation after the reception was the throwing of white confetti in-stead of the usual rice, as the bridal couple came down the staircase and took their departure for Union Station. They have will stop temporarily at one of the hotels until they decide on a house. The gifts, which were displayed in the third floor, have not been exceeded in num-ber and elegance at any wedding within the last decade. They comprised hundreds of valuable articles in silver and cut glass; bric-a-brac from foreign countries; bijou furniture; a grand plane and an Angelus; cabinets of table glass; china of infinite sorts and decorations, and pictures of all sorts and descriptions. Fourteen silver bowls in all sizes, from an enormous punch bowl to small dishes suitable for bonbons, were among the number. Many bronzes, large and small, and five handsome clocks were

BARKER-MOSS WEDDING.

An interesting wedding yesterday morning was that of Miss Edna Phillips Moss, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles LeRoy Moss, and Mr. Horace Holt Barker of New York. The ceremony was at the Church of the Messiah, at 11:30 o'clock. Easter illies and many palms made the chancel attractive and the gowns carried out the white and green scheme of color. The bride appeared in meteor crepe, with plisses of meline, on the skirt, and a Duplisses of meline, on the skirt, and a Du-Barry bertha on the high bodice, made of Barry bertha on the high bodice, made of old Venetian point lace, which is an heir-loom and very handsome. Her tuile veil was quite simply arranged, and in her hands were lifes of the valley. Miss Althea Somerville, the only maid was also in white.

Frederick Whiting of Montgomery, Ala., served the bridegroom as best man; while the ushers were Joseph Barker of Montgomery, brother of the bridegroom; George Phillips of Memphis, an uncle of the bride; while the others were reasoned by the bridegroom; George to white silk found the others were pale grant to her brides and Miss Josephine Christian served punctured and Miss Josephine Christian served punctured to bride a damond brooch, given to her the tuile veil was fastened by a white alignet while a diamond brooch, given to her the tuile veil was fastened by a white alignet while a diamond brooch, given to her the tuile veil was fastened by a white alignet while a diamond brooch, given to her the brides of the lace at her throat the ushers were Josephine Christian served punctured to her brides, with a bertha of point lace. MacDERMID-MANEWAL NUPTIALS.

Ralph MacDermid of Chicago and Miss Lillian Elvira Manewal, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August Manewal, were married at half after 6 o'clock last evening at the Manewal residence, No. 3732 Wash ington boulevard, the Reverend Doctor Mc Kittrick performing the ceremony. The house decorations were white and green, many Easter lillies being used to form a canopy in the drawing-room, under which the bridal party stood. The bride came in, attended by her elder sister, Miss Carrie Manewal, and imme-diately preceded by her little niece, Miss Mildred Sharp, as flower girl. Julian Mac-Dermid, the bridegroom's brother, of Chicago, was best man.

The bridal gown was a renaissance lace robe over silver white liberty satin, the lace augmented by chiffon inserts. The tulle lace augmented by chilfon inserts. The tulle veil was long, but extremely narrow in effect, in accordance with a late Parislan idea, and caught to the hair with orange blossoms. Lillies of the valley in a shower, formed her bouquet. The maid of honor wore cream tinted crepe de Chine, and applications of Irish point lace; with a bouquet of white roses.

The flower girl wore a white Paris muslin frock, much trimmed with Valenciennes lace insertions; and carried a high-handled basket filled with white roses and their green foliage. Mrs. Manewal wore black slik veiling, with black and white appliques and duchesse lace; Mrs. L. A. Manewal was in ecru crepe and lace; while Mrs. J. C. Sharp, the bride's sister, wore bisque de meteor with applique of the same shade and a lace guimpe.

Only intimate friends were asked to witonly intimate triends were asked to witness the ceremony, but a reception followed from 8 to 10 o'clock, for which many invitations were sent out. After the reception Mr. and Mrs. MacDermid took an Eastern train, and will visit in New York and various cities for six weeks. They will live to Chicago spins to the Eastern Hotel of the in Chicago, going to the Beach Hotel, after their honeymoon, and in June getting into their own home at No. 4329 Madison ave-nue, where they will receive on Mondays, June 23 and 29.
